

Morgan Presents

Color/Code: Sam Jablon & Odili Donald Odita
September 23rd—November 2nd, 2021

Opening reception: Thursday, September 23rd, 5-8pm
155 Suffolk Street, New York, NY 10002

For its inaugural exhibition, Morgan Presents unveils Color/Code, a cross-generational pairing of artists Sam Jablon and Odili Donald Odita that considers color and its uses in generating and communicating content in painting.

Renowned for his exploration of color in large-scale, geometric compositions, Odita has exhibited extensively at institutions including The Studio Museum in Harlem, Philadelphia Museum of Art, Baltimore Museum of Art, and the 52nd Venice Biennale. Odita leverages color as an instrument in his continuing investigation of our relationship to space, empathy, and broader transcontinental cultural dialogues.

Jablon studied poetry at the Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics, which was established by Allen Ginsberg, Anne Waldman, and John Cage at Naropa University in Boulder, Colorado, before obtaining his MFA from Brooklyn College, where he studied under creative luminaries such as Vito Acconci. Jablon's practice explores the intersection of poetry and painting while simultaneously refusing to be categorized as solely one or the other. Through a focused use of vibrant color, Jablon leverages the tactile nature of his medium to address fundamental concerns of identity and constitution on both individual and societal levels.

Color/Code will engage these two artists in a dialogue around how each invokes formal topography in the landscape of abstraction and poetry, respectively. Both artists present the viewer with a search for meaning, a decoding, and reorientation while allowing for an aesthetic indulgence through the full impact of the works. Odita's arranging of geometric zones of color can be understood as a direct intervention—one that is paralleled by Jablon's arrangement of layered, disassociated words. In short, both practices invoke a call to action through color.

Morgan Presents is a New York exhibition space founded and directed by Morgan Aguilar-Lucander, an independent curator, writer, dealer, and advisor to both artists and collectors.

Morgan Presents invites pairs of artists to create an exhibition that offers a new perspective into their practice. Morgan Presents is not a representing gallery, and no one artist will exhibit twice during the run of the program. Morgan Presents intends to offer an insight into today's emerging vanguard of painting and sculpture in collaboration and dialogue with established artists and galleries both domestically and abroad. A hard-back publication, cataloguing each exhibition, will be published at the conclusion of the project.

The curatorial program will be presented out of 155 Suffolk Street in Manhattan, commencing from September 2021.
